“ To my uncle jeff. May you rip in heaven. Thank you for always being true to ur self and family,u never change for anyone just for them to like u u just said f$&# it if they like me then they do if they Don't then oh well. But no matter how mean u where their was always good in u we just had to get to know u and see u for who u where. And we did u all way took care of my sister amy and loved her and her kids just like she did urs all where their for each other through hard times and good times. U took care of her when she was sick,and she did the same for her. Y'all both made each other complete and that's what made my relationship with my husband complete cause if y'all can do it so can I. I love u so much and will miss u I know ur in haven happy and walking and ur not sick and I know u will be watching over my sister and ur kids. And maybe someday will see u their when our time comes we love u and miss u. R.I.P BROTHER!!! :-)

“ RIP my cousin and friend. I know you are now out of pain and having a reunion to top all reunions. You are dancing and walking again. Although your family and friends here on earth grieve your passing your Family and friends in Heaven rejoice you being there. You will missed by many so until we meet again Cousin know you were loved and touched many lives while here on earth.
